Our President

Three and a half centuries ago, in the year 1630, John Winthrop preached a sermon saying that America was to be a city on a hill with the eyes of the world upon her and that she must deal honestly with God or He would withdraw His help and catastrophe would be the end result.

Today in America and around the world people are asking, "What went wrong with the American dream?" TIME MAGAZINE says we are on the verge of a "national nervous breakdown." The wealthiest nation in the world with fantastic accomplishments seems to be going to heaven and hell at the same time.

Perhaps the key to the problem was given by a prominent educator who said America made its great beginning by recognizing that the heart of man as well as his mind must be cultivated and developed. But we lost our vision in the latter part of the 20th century and said spiritual and moral values were irrelevant. With the value system destroyed all sorts of devils plague us and our ship is without compass and rudder.

Out of this catastrophic mess, leaders all over the world are crying for spiritual renewal. Only Jesus Christ and His Gospel can bring us life and salvation in this DARK HOUR of the world's history.

But all is not black and all is not hopeless! In every land are countless numbers of brave people who are fighting for those things that are right and honorable and godly. There are increasing numbers of youth who are joining their company. They are deeply committed and possess a burning desire to ease the hurt and pain that engulfs our society. And they want to do it now!

Christian high schools in America are providing dramatic evidence that young people can be challenged and trained to become great leaders in church and community.

The unique thing about Oak Grove which provides the springboard for academic excellence is the evangelical thrust of the Gospel message which permeates the staff and student body. Here the mind and spirit are exposed to knowledge and the cutting edge of the Gospel. The results are often dramatic as students witness and mature. The future of Oak Grove is just as bright as the promises of God!

Chapter 3 THE BEGINNINGS OF GOVERNMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

The roots of American government reach deep into the past. Our system of government did not suddenly spring into being as if the waves of some political magician's wand. Nor was it pulled out of thin air by the

The Colonial Period

Our English Heritage. The French, Spanish, Dutch, Norwegians, and other Europeans settled in parts of what was to become the United States. But it was the English who came in the largest numbers. And it was the English who came to control the thirteen colonies that stretched for 1,300 miles along the Atlantic seaboard.

These early pioneers who cleared the wilderness and fought off the Indians had to look out their own economic future in the New World. But they came here in search of greater freedom and they brought with them their political beliefs with them. The English had long been working to develop an edge of a governmental system that had been working since the days of King John in 1215. These political ideas were especially important in the shaping of government in the United States.

Founding Fathers at Philadelphia. In the summer of 1787, thirty-nine men developed through long sessions of experience, tradition, thought, and deed. We shall now review the high points of their beginnings.

They brought with them their own political beliefs with them. The English had long been working to develop an edge of a governmental system that had been working since the days of King John in 1215. These political ideas were especially important in the shaping of government in the United States.

The Two Concepts of Limited Government and Civil Liberties. They brought with them, too, the twin ideas of limited government and civil liberties. That is, that government is not all-powerful; that government is limited in what it may do, and, especially, that it is limited in the sense of which are to be found today — county, township, jury, sheriff, constable, and justice of the peace, for example. And all of these were well-known in England long before the first Englishman was found in America.

SETTLERS AT WORK
Early Americans had to live together in harmony, or they would not survive. This was called "government in order to live," the beginning of our government today.

The Two Concepts of Limited Government and Civil Liberties. They brought with them, too, the twin ideas of limited government and civil liberties. That is, that government is not all-powerful; that government is limited in what it may do, and, especially, that it is limited in the sense that each man has certain rights that government cannot injure or take away. These great principles of freedom were proclaimed in such historic English documents as the Magna Carta in 1215, the Petition of Right in 1628, and the Bill of Rights and the Act of Toleration of 1689.

The Concept of Representation. A third vitally important concept brought to America in the government was that of representation. For centuries there had been developing in England the
